GOOD NEWS FOR HOMEMAKERS

LOW-COST STOCKING STUFFERS YOU CAN MAKE.

Attractive and useful stocking gifts can be made inexpensively and easily and will add a personal touch to your Christmas. You can use all kinds of materials found around the house, including scraps of fabric, empty boxes, cans and bottles, wrapping paper and tissue paper, ribbons, buttons and beads.

FOR CHILDREN. A piggy bank can be made from a salt box or round plastic bottle, using six corks for the legs and ears, painting a face and cutting a slot for the money on top. Make a play telephone from two different sized cans by threading yarn through the cans and attaching a jar lid with painted numbers for the dial. Beanbags can be made in free-form shapes or in doll, heart, angel or star designs, appropriate for Christmas. Cut out shapes from leftover material, sew the peices together and fill with beans.

Building blocks can be made from cut-down milk cartons. Cover them with self-adhesive paper and decorate with alphabet letters or numbers. Easy-to-make puppets can be constructed by covering a wooden spoon with a bandanna or felt coat and painting a face on the top of the spoon for the head. Be sure to glue a stick of wood crosswise the spoon to hold the coat upright.

Make masks by cutting out faces of animals or cartoon characters from cardboard. Use buttons for eyes and string or yarn for hair. Punch holes on both sides of the mask and run elastic through them, knotting the ends. To help children learn how to dress, staple a zipper, shoelaces, two pieces of fabric with a button and buttonhole, the two parts of a snap fastener, a hook and eye, and the two ends of a belt, to a small piece of painted plywood.

FOR TEEN-AGERS AND ADULTS. Cover inexpensive telephone and address books, small notebooks or photo albums with upholstery fabric for a luxury look or quilted calico for a country look. For attractive bookmarks, sew embroidery trim to a piece of felt and decorate one end with a tassel. Decorate the frames of inexpensive hand mirrors with flower petals and leaves cut from dyed fabric. Glue on sequins.

Small boxes or cans trimmed with braid, yarn or ribbon make excellent containers for pencils, paint brushes, jewelry and cosmetics. Make a pretty pincushion by covering a ball of Styrofoam with velveteen or other fabric and edging with braid. Decorate one-color plastic mats with geometric shapes cut from self-adhesive paper.

You can also plan stocking gifts around one theme. For example, write your favorite recipes on index cards and put them in a hand-decorated recipe box. Then select one recipe and put the necessary spices and herbs in little packets inside an envelope. Include a handmade apron with matching pot holders. Decorate the stocking with a bouquet of dried herbs.

For the letter writer, fill a stocking with handmade post cards. Cut simple designs from self-adhesive paper and stick on four-by-six cards. Add some stamps and a small decorated address book. Attach a dyed feather to a pen point by wrapping thread around it and the quill.
